

Buried Treasure

Dear friend,

As you may have noticed, I did not come into work today. Yesterday, I flew into Italy, in the hopes of realizing my dream of traveling around Europe. It is beautiful here. The food is great, the sights are terrific, the people are kind, etc. But more importantly, I have big news for you. I may have uncovered buried treasure. Some Russians overheard me tell my wife on the phone, though, and whenever I go out of my hotel, I notice them following me. I myself can't possibly retrieve the treasure, as I am afraid that the Russians will steal it from me. I need you to get it and please be punctual. Once we return to the states, we can split the treasure. The location is below, but I have encoded it since I don't want the Russians to get their hands on it. Remember the fun games we played at the bar?
